

Dear Professor Sims,

I wanted to express my appreciation for your support and guidance with my designs this semester. Your expertise and feedback have been crucial in helping me improve and develop my skills and have a better understanding of the design world. I was not very educated or experienced on the use of Adobe InDesign and designing in general, so this course has been very beneficial for me.

I really enjoy your teaching style and have already learned a lot from you even just being halfway through the semester. You have encouraged me to push my own creative boundaries and see little things in my designs that I would have never noticed before. One of my managers at work even asked me for help designing a logo and I felt confident assisting him because of the skills I've learned in this course.

This has been one of the most beneficial classes I have taken so far and I can confidently say I have actually been able to retain the content we are learning and feel like I am genuinely learning everytime I am in class. Thank you once again for being such an awesome professor. I have valued the opportunity of getting to learn from you and grow my skills.

All the best,
